About THE NEWTOWNER

Did you know?

- Over the last two years we have published six acclaimed issues.
- We are one of very few arts and literary magazines that operates as a grass roots, all-volunteer movement in a local community, and that is not funded by a university or college.
- We are the only arts and literary journal we know of aimed at a general readership that regularly publishes the creative work of young writers and artists. We publish the work of elementary, middle-school, and high-school students in a dedicated section called "Youth Expressions."
- Not only do we publish the work of young writers and artists, we mentor youth editors who select and edit the works published in the Youth Expressions section.
- We work with and publish the creative work of Garner Correctional Institution inmates. We are the only arts and literary journal we know of that is doing this on a regular basis. This work is showcased in its own dedicated section called "From the Inside Out."
- In the digital age, The Newtowner is an ode to print as an art form. It is a perfect bound, full-color art magazine printed on 100# weight silk-textured paper with exceptional graphic design.

More than a magazine, THE NEWTOWNER is a community of readers, writers, editors, artists, and art lovers, who together support the arts and each other.

The Newtowner's community outreach has included:

- Community poetry and prose readings
- Launch issue celebrations that have been open to the public
- Creation of the Inaugural Newtowner Open Poetry Award
- Creation of The Newtowner/Newtown High School Poetry Award
- Mentoring of high school and middle school youth editors
- Musical and dramatic performances
- Dance workshops
- Panel discussions
- Newtown Arts Festival support and involvement
- Local library events
- Attendance at readings and performances by inmates at Garner Correctional Institution by the staff of The Newtowner
- Venetian-inspired Masked Ball to celebrate our first anniversary
